There's A Difference!

Almost every business man wears a SACK SUIT. It's the regular staple style for business wear. The thing that will attract and please you in our Suits is that they are different from the common run of Sack Suits. There's a snap and style to them which makes the wearer distinguished among other Sack Suit wearers. The quality is best, of course. That's what H. S. & M. on a garment means. Nothing better. We'll show you the label that stands for Clothes—safety.

H. S. & M. Suits from $10.00 to $20.00.
Other Good Suits $5.00, $7.50 and $8.50.

STATE NEWS.

—The Acts of 1903 have been printed and bound and are ready for delivery.

—Jonas Sanders was drowned while seining at Valley Falls cotton mill, in Spartanburg county.

—The United States government has awarded contracts amounting to nearly $1,000,000 for the Charleston navy yard.

—At the reunion in Columbia a motion was adopted to memorialize the legislature to provide for a Confederate soldiers home.

—The oat crop in Oconee county promises to be a failure this year. The lack of rain sufficient at the right season has ruined the crop.

—The Gaffney Manufacturing Company seems to be diversifying. They have employees named Wheat, Oorn, Turnipseed, Rainwater and Grubb.

—Ennis Alexander, 14 year old son of M. L. Alexander, of Greenville, fell from his father's barn and fractured his skull, dying a few hours later.

—At the Barnwell court last week Mose Berry, a negro injured in a collision on the Seaboard, got a verdict for $700, and the heirs of another negro who was killed, got $2,500.

—Fifty-three applicants for permission to practice appeared before the State Board of Medical Examiners in Columbia on Wednesday, among them eight negro men and two white women.

—The Greenwood police captured three escaped Georgia convicts recently. They had escaped from the Augusta chain gang and a reward of $20 each was offered for their capture.

—The internal revenue department last week seized 200 gallons of whiskey at the State Dispensary for unpaid taxes. This whiskey was captured by constables some weeks ago at Dents.

—The other day in the court at Sumter a negro was refused any counsel. So he was forced to defend himself. When put on the stand he fell upon his knees and asked God to help him prove his innocence.

—Frank W. Payne, a young man of Saluda county, who fled from home some months ago after killing a negro, was burned to death in the home of Attorney-General Gilmer in Waynesville, N. C., on Thursday night.

—Daniel C. Hart, who for the past two years has been night clerk in the Spartanburg postoffice, has been arrested on the charge of abstracting valuables from letters. He was regarded as an excellent young man.

—A strong effort is being made to induce the Governor to pardon Mrs. Carson, who is in the penitentiary for life from Spartanburg for murdering her husband. A petition with 2,000 names has been sent to the governor.

—Dr. and Mrs. J. R. Wilkinson, who after a stay of about eight years in China, as missionaries, have arrived at their old home in Greenville. Dr. and Mrs. Wilkinson have a family of six children, three of whom were born in China.

—Miss Anna Anderson, of the Thornewell Orphanage in Clinton, was killed Tuesday, 19th inst., in the laundry of that institution. While passing the wringer, that machine suddenly went to pieces and Miss Anderson was struck about the head.

—The city bank of Greenwood suspended on Wednesday. The reason given is that it sustained losses recently. President J. F. Davis issues a statement in which he says: "Creditors and depositors will be paid in full, but it will take time."

—Comptroller General Jones gives notice that there will be a meeting in Columbia on Tuesday, June 2, of the State Board of Equalization. This board will consider the assessments on railroad, telephone, telegraph and Pullman Palace Car Company.

—David R. Elkin, aged 23, disappeared from Greenville March 18 and his relatives have not heard of him since that date. He came to Greenville from Georgia to work on the electric line. His mother lives in Columbia. She is very anxious about him.

—The Grand Lodge of Odd Fellows in session in Columbia decided to establish an orphan home at some point in this State, and $1,000 was appropriated for the purpose as a start. A committee was appointed to carry out the plan at the earliest practicable date.

—Mrs. Herrall, who lives near Cherokee Springs, in Spartanburg County, disappeared from her father's home on Thursday night, 14th inst., and has not been heard of since. Her husband and two children had gone away to spend a week and she went to her father's home during their absence.

—Wofford College does not wish Cokesbury school to claim the honor of having organized the first baseball team in South Carolina. There were two teams at Wofford in 1899-70, the Wofford Stars and the Pioneers. They were composed of Wofford men many of whom now occupy important positions in church and state.

—In an appeal case before Judge Dantzel, where a Spartanburg magistrate had refused a jury to a defendant when the latter could not pay the fees for the constable and summoning the jury, Judge Dantzel ruled that these requirements could not be made a condition precedent; that the constitution gave every man the right of trial by jury and that such should be granted him, even if the party did not furnish the money for paying the constable's fee and the costs of summoning a jury.

GENERAL NEWS.

—New York state is suffering from a long continued drought.

—It is said that the Georgia peach crop will be much better than expected some time back.

—It is said that Mrs. Cleveland is opposed to her husband being a candidate for the presidency again.

—A white man charged with murder was taken from jail in Madison, Ga., and shot to death by a mob.

—Hermis, the champion 3-year-old colt of 1902, has been sold to Edward R. Thomas, of New York, for $60,000.

—It is estimated that $3,000,000 more in gold will come this year from the Klondike than last year, which was $12,000,000.

—Two negro boys tortured to death a five-year-old son of a prominent white farmer living near Millville, Ga. The murderers were arrested.

—Former Postmaster E. U. Fordyce of Bowling Green, Ky., has been indicted by the federal grand jury on the charge of embezzling $4,000 while in office.

—Miss Floy Gilmore, of Indiana, a graduate in law at the University of Michigan, has just been appointed assistant attorney general for the Philippines.

—The postal receipts for April in the large offices of the country show an increase of 11 per cent, which is another gratifying indication of continued prosperity.

—A negro Christian science practitioner has been arrested at Newport News, charged with the murder of a negro woman found with two bullets lodged in her brain.

—Miss Dora Thompson, a nurse employed in a hospital in the Philippines, has fallen heir to $200,000 by the will of Mrs. Alicia Armstrong of Mount Vernon, N. Y.

—J. L. Miller, a letter carrier at Jeffersonville, Ind., has been arrested because he failed to turn in two cents collected on a postage due letter. He collected the two cents one year ago.

—Ex-Mayor Ames, of Minneapolis, was sentenced on Saturday to six years imprisonment for having accepted money from gamblers and other law-breakers for protection while he was mayor.

—Six hundred and ninety-five immigrants were denied admission to the United States along the Canadian border alone, during the month of April. Most of those excluded were afflicted with some form of contagious disease.

—A New York woman who died the other day left a will directing the payment of $50 a month for the support of her poodle, and $100 a month for the support of her father. The old man must realize that he had a close call.

—W. P. Kelly, who lives six miles from Lagrange, Ky., shot and killed his own son on Wednesday night, mistaking him for an enemy. The son, who was attending a medical college at Louisville had ridden out to see his family.

—Amos E. Randall, white, and Dan Kennedy and Henry Golding colored, were lynched at Mulberry, Fla., early Wednesday morning for the murder of Barney Brown, a prominent farmer. Randall was a saloon-keeper and Kennedy and Golding were advocates of prohibition.

—A Washington special says: The condition of General James Longstreet, the Confederate commander, is very serious. An injury to one of his legs a few days ago, has been followed by a sharp attack of rheumatism. General Longstreet has been in failing health for at least two years.

—A favorite way of getting revenge seems to be by means of poisoned whiskey. A man was arrested in West Virginia for sending a poisoned quart to another, and a woman was arrested in Memphis, Tenn., for sending a poisoned quart to another woman. The trouble in each case was jealousy.

—A committee from A. P. Hill Camp of Confederate Veterans, of Petersburg, has located and marked the spot in Dinwiddie County where Gen. A. P. Hill was shot and killed on April 2, 1865. The place is near the Central State Hospital. On the spot A. P. Hill Camp is to erect an appropriate monument.

—Dr. Leland Dorr Kent, of Rochester, N. Y., was sentenced to 20 years imprisonment for inducing Miss Dingle, a trained nurse, to commit suicide. They had agreed to kill themselves. She carried out the agreement, but he cut his throat and got well. Mrs. Kent, the wife, has become insane over the affair.

—A special report issued by Commissioner of Pensions Ware shows that more than 22 per cent of those who enlisted in the United States army for the war with Spain have already applied for pensions. If the present rate at which applications are being filed continues, one-half of those who served in that war will have applied for pensions at the expiration of the fiscal year.

—Illinois has just come under a more restrictive child labor law, which hits the telegraph companies and glass-blowing concerns especially hard. It will drive the latter out of the State, if their own statements are to be believed. The new law prohibits the employment of persons under 14 in mercantile, manufacturing and various other establishments, and the night employment of children under 16 years of age. Going with this is a new compulsory education law, forcing every child under the age of 14 to attend some public or parochial school at least 110 days in a year.

A Letter From California.

Los Angeles, Cal., May 23.
Mr. Editor: Since my sojourn here in this beautiful land of southern California I have often thought of my friends in dear old Anderson, and wished that some of you could visit here and view the beauties of this fair city, Los Angeles, "City of Angels."

We left Atlanta in March and turned our back upon cold, bleak winds and icy pelting rains, and in a journey of three days and nights leaped "into the lap of Spring." The transformation one experiences, who in the winter crosses the plains and long desert stretch through Texas, is expressed by no other migration in the experience of travelers, for the improvement of the weather away from winds and pelting cold rains are some of the reasons we seek this land of sunshine.

There is health in the shimmering sunlight, the sweet breath of the ever blowing west winds, the never changing climate, the indescribable shifting hue of the mountain shadows, the walks through orange groves and palm gardens, the popple fields of glorious crimson and golden splendor, and roses climbing in rambling profusion to reach the housetops of palatial homes. These are some of the things why I enjoy California—but then the fruits! Oh, the fruits of California are so abundant and varied that one can enjoy these luxuries in abundance. Oranges brought to your door and sold at 15c a water bucket full. Grapes, figs, dates, plums, peaches and all other fruits abound within your reach. The cost of living here is about as cheap as in the East. Gardens bear vegetables the year round and are sold at very reasonable rates. Groceries and other table commodities about the same as in Eastern cities.

The amusements among the people of Los Angeles are many. Very many attractions are offered for recreation and pleasure, and any day and evening the pleasure seekers find something to amuse and often instruct. For sea-bathing repair ye to Long Beach, reached by trolley or electric car. "There where the breakers wash the shore" you can sit and pass the hours away or take a plunge into the salty waves. The smooth beach dipping gently down to the ocean affords one of the most delightful bathing grounds found upon the Pacific coast. Sort of semi-tropic tide waves the shores of Long Beach, and is a favorite resort for Los Angeles' busy people.

Once a year in May a beautiful Spanish festival takes place and is attended by thousands. This festival of the flowers rival splendor the famous annual Mardi Gras of New Orleans. This year it was of unusual splendor and gaiety, owing to the visit of the President of the United States. He was making his tour through the West.

The festa opened Tuesday night, May 6th, and continued till Saturday night. The opening night was heralded by a grand pageant, headed by five bands of music, playing at intervals. The gorgeous display of floats, type-floats, different allegorical representations began at an early hour and continued till late at night.

Spanish memories of oriental splendor, brought out to the fullest extent, and homage done the President in flashing style and wonderful display. Transcendent crowds, radiating the spirit of Spanish grandeur, compared with the life of the rollicking, frolicsome west. This characterizes the advent of "Green Flora" Goddess of Flowers. The electrical parade in floats of nocturnal brilliancy unexcelled in the grand pageant in a desert vast, peaceful barren, burning under the rays of a scorching sun. All vestige of life seemed forgotten in that pall of heat and incandescent light.

The desert passed by. Then came irrigation, the flow wound its way through the streets, to show what water means to the arid west. Then follows floats of individual flowers. "The pond lily" came and opened its petals and languished under a green gaze. Then came the beautiful wild calli lilies, so abundant in southern California; restfully they lay, bathed in ivory light. The chrysanthemums, symbolizing Japanese ingenuity. Then the "bridal wreath" served its term.

A young maiden surrounded by her friends, whose youth and beauty were so subtle to last. For the moment possessed the night, the bride, beneath a canopy, stood clad in white, with necklace of pearls upon her throat, a diamond crown upon her head, an elegant gown. A man was arrested in West Virginia for sending a poisoned quart to another, and a woman was arrested in Memphis, Tenn., for sending a poisoned quart to another woman. The trouble in each case was jealousy.

—A committee from A. P. Hill Camp of Confederate Veterans, of Petersburg, has located and marked the spot in Dinwiddie County where Gen. A. P. Hill was shot and killed on April 2, 1865. The place is near the Central State Hospital. On the spot A. P. Hill Camp is to erect an appropriate monument.
